Gifts Collected by P.-T. A. Will Be Distributed to L. A. School

The charity drive inaugurated by the Eagle Rock women of the P. T. A., will come to a close this afternoon. A special effort has been put forth on this drive for the reason that the children to whom the articles will be donated are badly in need of assistance. The ladies feel that a little Christmas cheer at this particular time will be greatly appreciated.

Food, clothing and other things useful have been gathered together at the Gift Shop and will be loaded on a truck this afternoon and delivered to the Utah street school in Los Angeles. Emil Swanson of the Eagle Rock Lumber company has kindly donated the use of his truck for the purpose.

Eagle Rock People Post Gifts Early

If the long line of people standing at the Eagle Rock parcel post window every day now spells anything at all, it indicates that the "folks back home" are going to be made happy by being made the recipients of delicious California fruits and other nice things in abundance. As a consequence Postmaster Schiff and his able corps of assistants at Eagle Rock are striving mightily to keep ahead of the business.

'Oxy' Students Hold Christmas Service

Students at Occidental college congregated in the chapel on Wednesday night for the purpose of holding a Christmas service. The exercises were under the supervision of the Y. W. C. A. Christmas carols and other music helped to make the program a very interesting one. Santa was impersonated in a very capable manner by one of the popular students.

MENTIONED IN EASTERN PRESS

Detroit Writer Comments on Speed Shown by College Boys

That the Occidental college football team is gaining recognition in distant parts is evident from what the Detroit Free Press stated in a recent number. Here it is: "Joseph Pipal, coach of the Occidental, Los Angeles, Cal., team, boasts of the two fastest ends of any football team in the country. 'Cliff' Argue, a 10-second man, plays one end position, and Johnny Spangler, who covers the 100-yard dash in 10 1-5 seconds, handles the other."

"Argue and Spangler are not able to take advantage of their speed," says Pipal. "They have been over-running their man and they fail to protect themselves when the interference tries to smother them."

New Business Firms Obtain Locations

Several new business firms will cast their lot with Eagle Rock citizens within the next few weeks, among them being an exclusive shoe store which will occupy the rooms two doors east of the Eagle Rock Daily News office on East Colorado Boulevard. This place will be ready for occupancy about January 15 or soon after the contractor, J. Tipton has completed the work of putting in shelving and fixtures.

The building until recently used as a city hall will be used for a dry goods establishment. It will be ready about the same time. The corner of Sol Gans is undergoing alterations to make room for the proprietor's increasing business. He expects to have the place functioning by Monday next. Sol serves soup—and of course many other nice things to eat. He will cater to the "after the movie crowd" as well as take care of the hungry populace earlier in the day.

Church Women Hold Bazaar December 16

The women of the Eagle Rock Congregational church who are to hold a Christmas bazaar at the Women's club house in Eagle Rock Saturday next, announce that many new things have been donated for the different booths. Mrs. Sherwood of North Royal drive has packed boxes of fruits nuts and candies. California grown, which she considers very appropriate gifts for the folks back home.

Eagle Rock Elks To Attend Meeting

Many Eagle Rock members of Glendale Lodge 1289 B. P. O. Elks are looking forward with considerable anticipation to the next meeting of the order at the Elk home next Monday night, December 18. It will be the last regular meeting of the year.

The committee in charge has intimated that a great surprise is awaiting the members on that night. Of course there will be initiation of candidates, but there is something else whetting local curiosity.

Community spirit is increased when you do your buying in Glendale.

ART PRODUCTIONS TO BE EXHIBITED IN EAGLE ROCK

Display Is Under Auspices of Twentieth Century Woman's Club

Lovers of art and admiring friends and acquaintances of Eagle Rock artists will have the satisfaction of viewing many of the rare productions created by members of the Eagle Rock colony at the Women's Twentieth Century club house on the corner of Colorado boulevard and Kenilworth avenue, Eagle Rock, today when the club throws open the doors of its beautiful home.

Few people in Southern California, comparatively speaking, realize that Eagle Rock has such a quota of talented painters. The settings about the city, the beautiful drives, the mountain scenes, the shrubbery, flowers and parks have proved too much of an attraction to be overlooked. So, while Hollywood has its movies, Eagle Rock has gone one better and houses within the confines of the city many real creators of art.

Best Productions Today one will have the opportunity of seeing the best productions of art and not for commercial purposes, it is quite possible that some of the pictures may be purchased.

The paintings on exhibit are two by Conrad Buff, "Desert Hills," and "Gray Day." Mrs. Mary Buff, "The Orchard." Arden H. Edwards, "Wild Weather," "Edge of Desert," and "Santa Monica Bay." Mrs. Evelyn Hobbs, "Quiet Waters."

Many Exhibit Mrs. Virginia Isaac, "Mt. Tamalpais." Marechal Neil, "Roses," "American Beauty Roses." Aaron Kilpatrick, "Mono Rock," "Gold and Blue," "Gray Day." Florence Mason, "Eastern Landscape," "Pastoral Scene." Charles M. Miller, "Arch Beach," "Chickens," "Park." Mrs. Elsie Wolf, "Roses." Mrs. E. H. Elbert, "Wild Flower Studies," "Eight in water colors." Hanson Puthuff, "Landscape," title given by the club. This painting received favorable mention at the art exhibition recently closed at the Southwest Museum, and "Lofty Heights."

Eagle Rock Locals POSSIBLY YOU

The doll show has a beautiful display of dolls, autos, garages, blocks and toys and Christmas trees from two feet up.

The Methodist Sunday school of Eagle Rock will have a fine Christmas tree for the children at the annex on Friday evening, December 22.

Mrs. E. W. Thompson of 334 North Ellenwood Drive received the sad intelligence Wednesday that her mother, Mrs. Fletcher of Emporia, Kan., had passed away.

Rev. E. Morgan Isaac delivered a very forceful lecture on the subject, "Spirit, Mind and Matter" at the people's meeting held at the Congregational church, Eagle Rock, last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hozer and baby arrived in Eagle Rock Saturday to take up a residence. They are at present enjoying a visit at the home of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hines at 133 Rowland avenue.

The supper feature of the Methodist church at Eagle Rock on Wednesday evenings will be omitted until after the holidays. At 8 o'clock in the evening the church congregation will come together for a big sing and Bible exposition by the pastor.

The big, beautiful Christmas tree on display at the Dolls shop, donated by Mrs. Percy Shumaker, will be presented to the hospital for undernourished children at Monte Vista when it has served its purpose here in Eagle Rock, it was announced this morning.

Autos in Collision; No One Is Injured

Wet pavements was the reason given for the collision of two cars at the intersection of Colorado boulevard and Dean streets in Eagle Rock at 7:30 o'clock this morning. No one was injured, according to the report handed in by H. L. Chaffin, who gave his address as 1122 East Wilson street, Glendale. The driver of the other car was A. Gausman of 23 Reimvay Court, Pasadena.

Two spokes, a bent crank and a broken windshield was the total of damage claimed.

General Election Slated for Greece

ATHENS, Dec. 14.—A general election will be held in Greece as soon as the near east peace treaty is signed at Lausanne, the Greek revolutionary committee announced today. Greece is concluding an important commercial treaty with Japan.

Declares Woman Took Her Own Life

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Kate Mitchell Trostell, pretty young widow who has been mysteriously missing three weeks, was not murdered—she "leaped into the drainage canal," her sweetheart, Arthur Foster, 32, told the police today after he had broken down, following a severe grilling lasting forty hours.

News of Foster's admissions were immediately transmitted to Chief of Police Charles C. Fitzmorris. Shortly afterward Fitzmorris and leading police officials hustled the prisoner to the death scene to re-enact the tragedy.

Foster appeared to be on the verge of complete collapse. His eyes turned glassy and his hands twitched nervously.

"I do not believe Foster's story that Mrs. Trostell leaped into the water," said Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes.

Foster's story did not explain the finding of bloodstains on the running board of his automobile. In the car, also, was a blood-stained robe, a black button and a pencil, both of which had been identified as belonging to the missing woman.

"Kate and I had a violent quarrel," he confessed, according to the police. "We were standing on the bank of the drainage canal. 'Suddenly Kate turned and leaped into the water. That was the last time I saw her alive. She must be dead or she'd be home.' Police are convinced, she was murdered."

PREPARE PETITION FOR ANNEXATION AT EAGLE ROCK

Public's Temper Regarding Joining L. A. Will Be Known Monday

Petitions which were expected to be presented to the trustees of Eagle Rock at its meeting last Monday, December 11, asking that the city be annexed to Los Angeles, are all ready for filing, it was announced this morning. They will be handed to the trustees in regular form at its next regular meeting next Monday evening, December 18.

Those who have the circulation of the petitions in hand state that slightly more than 800 names are now attached to the petitions. They are confident, they state, that the trustees will take action on the matter at their earliest convenience.

The law allows considerable latitude in reference to the time required to call an election, simply stating that it must be called within a reasonable time after the petitions are filed. It is usually assumed that thirty days may elapse before such action is taken by a legalized body.

Takes Time Ordinarily, those entrusted with such power take at least that

Columbia River Ice Jam Halts Traffic

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 14.—Floating ice today filled the Columbia river from bank to bank at Vancouver, Wash., according to reports received here. The ice is hindering river traffic. Below Vancouver the river was reported to be frozen over. The cold spell continues with the minimum temperature at nineteen degrees; eight degrees above zero. Two inches of snow has fallen here since early morning.

A farmer in Switzerland withdrew his savings of a lifetime from the bank and hid it in the barrel of his shotgun. A rabbit stopped outside his door and the farmer grabbed his gun and fired. He got the rabbit but it cost him 2000 Swiss francs, about $265, the amount he had stuffed into the gun and forgotten about.

much time to investigate the legality of such transactions, so it is hardly to be expected that the trustees of Eagle Rock will call an election sooner, granting that the petitions are filed, as has been stated. Nothing is to prevent their setting the time for calling the election a little farther along, if in their opinion, the occasion requires such action.

There appears to be a strong element in favor of annexation and an equally strong body that prefers to see Eagle Rock maintain its integrity. Both sides agree that the only solution is to let the people decide for themselves.

THEATRES

The Glendale

"The Galloping Kid," with Hoot Gibson, now showing at the Glendale Theatre, is an entirely different brand of western, depicting the wanderings of a hobo cowboy who never remains on a job longer than to stow a meal under his belt and bunk up somewhere for the night—until he meets the girl. For such a part, Gibson's personality and talents come in very handy, indeed.

The role of the little charmer who wins his heart and leads him from his wandering ways is played by Edna Murphy, the diminutive Universal star now rising rapidly in the celluloid heavens.

A unique feature of the film is that many of the exterior scenes were shot at Montezuma's famous 900-year-old adobe castle of Arizona desert cliff dwellers.

First Winter Snow Storm Hits Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—The first real snow storm of the winter visited Chicago and vicinity today. Weather forecasts promised further precipitation tomorrow and Saturday. Lake shipping was reported held up by a blizzard.

The T. D. & L.

Tonight's patrons of the T. D. & L. Theatre will witness the last performances of the big Paramount picture "Kick In," made from Willard Mack's play of the same name, and featuring Bert Lytell, Betty Compson and May McAvoy.

Such a combination of producer, story and cast is in itself the best indication of the quality of the offering, but it must not be forgotten that "Kick In" ran for two years in New York theatre, as a spoken drama.

A special film will also be shown for the benefit of the M. W. of A., Glendale lodge.

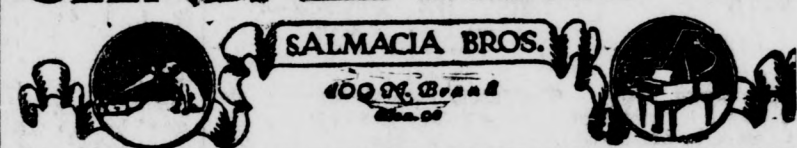

Manager Ralph Allan announces for Saturday afternoon and night, an added attraction, the Bohemian Quartet and Oriental Dance, the recent hit act at the Hollywood Bowl.

High School P.-T. A. Plans Fathers' Night

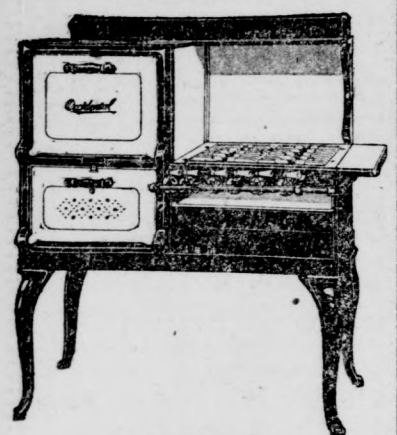

At the P.-T. A. federation meeting yesterday afternoon at the Glendale Union high school Mrs. W. Q. Widdows, president of the high school P.-T. A. announced that the Christmas program and party planned for next week has been postponed until January, because of the closing of school this Friday.

Mrs. Widdows said that the P.-T. A. officers thought it best not to hold the party while school is not in session so this action was taken.

The program will be given in January as a fathers' night celebration. There will be a candy sale at the school all day and an evening program will be given by the high school pupils under the direction of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson and Mrs. C. A. Parker.

The high school P.-T. A. is also planning a membership drive for January.

GLENDALE GAINS ANOTHER ARTIST

Frank C. Wamsley, Sculptor, Comes Here to Reside And Open Studio

Frank C. Wamsley, the well-known California sculptor, announces that he has selected Glendale as the home of the Fine Arts of California Shop, one of the most unique art industries in the United States, he states.

The new business enterprise is located at 1235 North Louise, Casa Verdugo. J. W. Cook, an uncle of Mr. Wamsley, is general manager of the new firm.

He notified James Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday that the new Glendale industry is now in operation. He also invites the public to pay the studio an inspection visit.

Will Produce Ornaments
In addition to general sculpture work, the Fine Arts of California Shop will make a specialty of turning out sculptured ornaments in bronze, gold and other finishes. These will include figures and emblems for automobiles, desks, etc.

Before taking up a residence in Glendale Mr. Wamsley conducted a studio in Los Angeles. Previously to that he was associated with the Chicago Art Institution for more than fifteen years. "At that time," he stated, "I resolved that I would establish a residence and studio in this city. I have done both."

Teachers Convene In L. A. on Monday

Next week is teachers' institute week for southern California, and some eleven thousand pedagogues are expected to foregather in Los Angeles for purposes of instruction and inspiration—and, incidentally, a little Christmas shopping.

One of the most promising programs of the entire week is scheduled for the afternoon of Monday, December 18, at Manual Arts high school, when Will C. Wood, state superintendent of instruction, will address the high school teachers. He will be followed by Florence Dobinson, member of the board of trustees of the National Shakespeare federation, who will present a lecture-recital of the Merchant of Venice, which will include costumes, scenes from the play and slides showing the celebrities who have played the famous characters. These slides are made from photographs, prints and paintings from the famous Dobinson collection, and have been beautifully colored under the personal supervision of John Rich, the eminent portrait painter. Assisting Mrs. Dobinson are Miss Mary Isabelle Alpaugh and Miss Mary Meiklejohn.

This lecture-recital has received the endorsement of the National Shakespeare federation, and is a recognized part of its program of Shakespearean revival. It has been selected for this presentation because of its intimate relation with high school classroom work.

TOTAL OF SALES HITS HIGH MARK

Sparr Heights Sells Just $671,000 of Property in Last Eighty Days

The fame of the "Green Verdugo Hills" has traveled far and wide, but they are not dream hills of fiction for they actually exist not so many leagues from Glendale, and in the heart of them is Sparr Heights, the exclusive residential and business tract represented by Francis-Barnum-Walters Company with offices at Verdugo Road at Montrose. The Glendale office is located at 200 East Broadway.

Visitors at Sparr Heights are all greatly impressed with the beauty of location, and December sales by the Sparr Heights company tell of the popularity and splendid future of the district.

According to figures the total sales in the last ten days amount to $201,400 which brings the total of the last eighty days up to $671,000.

Father O'Reilly to Conduct Mass Sunday

Rev. Father Patrick O'Reilly, who conducted a mission here last week from Portland, Ore., is resting over in Glendale for a few days and will preach at the 10:30 o'clock mass at the Catholic church on Sunday. As Father O'Reilly has a reputation as a forceful speaker, it is hoped that the general public will take advantage of this opportunity to hear him, stated Rev. Father J. S. O'Neill, the parish priest.

LEAGUE APPEALS TO PROTECT CITY

Vote Against Annexation in Chamber of Commerce Referendum, Plea

Los Angeles build and equip a sufficient number of schools to provide, instead of a half-day period, a full day's schooling for children as Glendale now does, the school tax of Los Angeles would more than double that of Glendale. Every fact indicates that instead of escaping taxes by annexation to Los Angeles, Glendale would assume a more enormous burden.

Sewers: It is a known fact that Los Angeles is at present unable to care for sewerage which is now connected. It is also a known fact that only a small percentage of Los Angeles is connected to the outfall sewer and has mains or laterals laid. It is also a fact that mains have been laid in portions of Los Angeles for more than eighteen months which are not, or will not be for some time, connected to the outfall sewer. Los Angeles' last bond issue of twelve million dollars for sewage disposal will supply only a portion of Los Angeles. How, then, could Glendale, an outlying district, expect sewage disposal within the next five years?

Height of Folly
Members of the Los Angeles city council have stated openly that it will not be necessary for any suburban city to annex to Los Angeles in order to obtain sewerage. Under such statement of facts, would it not be the height of folly to annex to Los Angeles for the purpose of obtaining immediate sewerage?

Transportation and Telephone:
The railway commission, the supreme authority on fixing rates, has stated in writing that city boundary lines will have no effect on fixing rates for transportation and telephone. "In other words," we could not obtain lower rates merely because we annexed to Los Angeles. It is apparent from the attitude taken by the Los Angeles city council and other bodies in the Hollywood fares, that we would have far less opportunity for a reduction in rates than if we were a separate community.

What Glendale Assumes:
If Glendale is annexed to Los Angeles, we must assume a portion of the present large bonded indebtedness of Los Angeles, in addition to paying the present bonded indebtedness of Glendale; Glendale would hand to Los Angeles on a golden platter, all her assets and receive nothing but idle promises in return.

Use your influence against annexation to Los Angeles. Glendale is in a prosperous condition under her own form of government. No city in the United States has made greater progress. When Glendale is voted to become a portion of Los Angeles, it means Glendale must always remain a part of that city. Why hasten to take a step that may prove an everlasting barrier to Glendale's prosperity. There need be no hurry to annex. Los Angeles will always be ready to receive outside territory. Even if in doubt—vote against annexation.

Mail or send your ballot against annexation before noon of December 16, 1922.

GLENDALE HOME PROTECTIVE LEAGUE.

Local Chickens Win Eleven Show Prizes

Mrs. Walter A. Babb, who conducts a chicken ranch at 1010 East Acacia street, is striving hard to make of Glendale the Petaluma of southern California. Mrs. Babb just returned from the annual poultry exhibition, which was conducted this year in Oakland, Calif. She made eleven entries, and came home with eleven ribbons.

This is said not only to be a record in itself, but also because Mrs. Babb's chickens were pitted in contests against some of the finest stock produced in Petaluma the San Francisco bay district.

British Super-Plane Entirely of Steel

●LONDON—What is stated to be the first all-steel bombing airplane in the world has just been successfully flown and tested at Farnborough, England.

Designed and constructed to the requirements of the British air ministry, this airplane is built throughout of steel and is lighter than a similar machine of wood.

It is driven by two 450-horsepower motors, and is claimed to be able to reach an altitude of between three and four miles when fully equipped with bombs and crew.

You can buy it in Glendale.

Jap Picture Brides Divorce in Hawaii

HONOLULU—The number of divorces of Japanese "picture brides" is abnormally high in the Territory of Hawaii, according to Judge John R. Desha, of the court of domestic relations, here. "All one has to do," Judge Desha says, "is to look up the divorce records to verify the statement that the large percentage of Japanese divorces filed here are those of 'picture brides'—Japanese women, who, after an exchange of photographs, agree to come to Honolulu and marry local Japanese, these marriages being performed before they are released from the local immigrant station.

YORK, S. C.—"Piggy Boy," a 300-pound pig, is a pet of John S. Hartness, a banker, living at Sharon, a small town near here. "Piggy Boy" is different from most pigs in that he doesn't attempt to put his nose into the bucket when he sees his master approaching with food. He runs to his pen and is ready for the food when it is poured into the trough. "Piggy Boy's" best chum among the animals in the Hartness barnyard is a cow. He sleeps every night with the cow, whose side serves him as a pillow.

Health Film Shown By Local Woodmen

Everyone who sees "The Value of a Life," the film being shown today at the T. D. & L. Theatre under the auspices of local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, will be inspired by its high message of hope, it is said. With scenes laid in and around the Woodmen's free sanatorium at Woodmen, Colo., it depicts the story of George Gray in his thrilling and successful fight against that great affliction of humanity—tuberculosis.

Gray, like many another man who has been mysteriously ailing for months, learns one day the nature of his trouble. At first he is in despair but upon reading of the Woodmen's sanatorium, he investigates and learns that this organization has treated 5000 men such as he since its foundation in 1909. So he says goodbye to his wife and kiddies and sets out for that monument to salvaged manhood in distant Colorado.

Arrived there, events from then on are one long series of revelations. Everything is better and finer and more hopeful than he had thought. The result is that in less than a year he leaves Woodmen, Colo., a cured man and rejoins his family—well, strong, made over in body and soul, eager to take up the reins of life once more.

This brief sketch of the film gives but a scant idea of its moving word of cheer to those afflicted and its lesson in thankfulness to those who are sound. It is an object in the doctrine of "Get fit and stay fit." The hours the film will be shown are 1:30, 8 and 10 o'clock.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

The marriage of Barbara, daughter of Anthony Harding, the multimillionaire, to William Mallory will take place on the twenty-fifth of January.

The article was dated New York. There was more, but Billy did not read it. He had read enough. It is true that he had urged her to marry Mallory; but now, in his loneliness and friendlessness, he felt almost as though she had been untrue to him.

"Come along, Byrne," a bailiff interrupted his thoughts, "the jury's reached a verdict."

The judge was emerging from his chambers as Billy was led into the courtroom. Presently the jury filed in and took their seats. The foreman handed the clerk a bit of paper. Even before it was read Billy knew that he had been found guilty. He did not care any longer, so he told himself. He hoped that the judge would send him to the gallows. There was nothing more in life for him now anyway. He wanted to die. But instead he was sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary at Joliet.

This was infinitely worse than death. Billy Byrne was appalled at the thought of remaining for life within the grim stone walls of a prison. Once more there swept over him all the old, unreasoning hatred of the law and all that pertained to it. He would like to close his steel fingers about the fat neck of the red-faced judge. The smug jurymen roused within him the lust to kill. Justice! Billy Byrne laughed aloud.

A bailiff rapped for order. One of the jurymen leaned close to a neighbor and whispered, "A hard-earned criminal," he said. "Society will be safer when he is behind the bars."

The next day they took Billy aboard a train bound for Joliet. He was handcuffed to a deputy sheriff. Billy was calm outwardly, but inwardly he was a raging volcano of hate.

In a certain very beautiful home on Riverside Drive, New York City, a young lady, comfortably backed by downy pillows, sat in her bed and alternated her attention between coffee and rolls, and a morning paper.

On the inside of the main sheet a heading claimed her languid attention: CHICAGO MURDERER GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE. Of late Chicago had aroused in Barbara Harding a greater proportion of interest than ever it had in the past, and so it was that she now permitted her eyes to wander casually down the printed column.

Murderer of harmless old saloon keeper is finally brought to justice. The notorious West Side "Bully" Byrne, apprehended after more than a year as fugitive from justice, is sent to Joliet for life.

Barbara Harding sat stony-eyed and cold for what seemed many minutes. Then with a stifled sob she turned and buried her face in the pillows.

The train bearing Billy Byrne and the deputy sheriff toward Joliet had covered perhaps half the distance between Chicago and Billy's permanent destination when it occurred to the deputy sheriff that he should like to go into the smoker and enjoy a cigarette.

Now, from the moment that he had been sentenced Billy Byrne's mind had been centered upon one thought—escape. He knew that there probably would be not the slightest chance for escape; but nevertheless the idea was always uppermost in his thoughts.

His whole being revolted, not alone against the injustice which had sent him into life imprisonment, but at the thought of the long years of awful monotony which lay ahead of him.

He could not endure them. He would not! The deputy sheriff rose, and motioning his prisoner ahead of him, started for the smoker. It was two cars ahead.

The train was vestibuled. The first platform they crossed was tightly enclosed; but at the second Billy saw that a careless porter had left one of the doors open. The train was slowing down for some reason—it was going perhaps, twenty miles an hour.

Billy was the first upon the platform. He was the first to see the open door. It meant one of two things—a chance to escape, or death. Even the latter was to be preferred to life imprisonment.

Billy did not hesitate an instant. Even before the deputy sheriff realized that the door was open, his prisoner had leaped from the moving train dragging his guard after him.

CHAPTER II.

The Escape

Byrne had had no time to pick any particular spot to jump for. He did jump but he might have been directly over a picket fence, or a bottomless pit. He did not know. Nor did he care.

As it happened he was over neither. The platform chanced to be passing across a culvert at the instant. Beneath the culvert was a "sliding pool," into this the two men plunged, alighting unharmed. Byrne was the first to regain his feet. He dragged the deputy sheriff to his knees, and before that frightened and astonished officer of the law could gather his wits together he had been released, slipped a little, and found himself looking into its cold and business-like muzzle.

Then Billy Byrne waded ashore, prodding the deputy sheriff in the ribs with cold steel, and warning him to silence. Above the pool lay a little wood, thick with tangled wildwood. Into this Billy forced his prisoner.

Daily NewsLetter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Ellis H. Martin, San Francisco correspondent, writes of the adoption by California of a State prohibition enforcement act, fashioned after the Volstead law. Bootleggers are scared and have raised the price on their wet goods, explaining that the risk will be multiplied by operation on the new measure.

TOMORROW—Michael F. Dacey, Denver correspondent, writes of a new agricultural "empire" which will be opened on the western slopes of the Rockies in Colorado when the new Moffat tunnel is constructed through the continental divide near Denver.

By ELLIS H. MARTIN
For International News Service.
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14.—From present prospects California is to have State prohibition enforcement as a Christmas gift.

When the voters of the Golden State—the greatest wine producing State in the Union—at the recent election sprung the biggest surprise since California went Democratic and returned Woodrow Wilson to the Presidential chair, and by referendum voted for State prohibition, the Volstead act, the measure did not immediately become effective.

Its effectiveness dates five days from the completion of the official State canvass of the vote. This canvass was begun early in December and is expected to be completed about December 29. Thus on Christmas Day the State prohibition measure will go into effect.

Bootleggers and dry law evaders are not kidding themselves in believing that the law of the State will not be enforced and will be a dead letter. This was indicated by the effect of announcement that the measure had been carried by at least 25,000 votes after first being reported snowed under two to one by adverse votes.

Bootleggers promptly boasted prices. They declared the risks of their business would increase 100 per cent with enactment of the State law. Many made prompt arrangements to get out of business.

The law, modeled almost in duplicate of the Volstead act, places the enforcement of prohibition squarely in the hands of the police and sheriffs of the State. Hitherto they have been able to pass over Volstead law violations with an easy conscience because the Federal authorities only were charged with enforcement. Bootleggers and their places of business were well known to the police and local officers, but it was not their business to check the lawlessness. Now that it is their business to enforce the law, they will enforce the State law. The State courts will handle the cases with greater speed and convictions will be obtained in cases where they go by default in the Federal courts through long delay.

The question of "how did it happen?" was asked on all sides following the news of passage of the Wright law, as it is named after its author, Representative T. M. Wright. The answer is: The women of a committee of 5,000. Recognizing that their best chance of success lay in Southern California, relatively dry territory, they concentrated their efforts there. However, they courageously waged battle in Central and Western California, "concededly wet" strongholds, and their success was evident in the manner in which they cut down the wet vote in many counties. San Francisco, wet stronghold, was invaded by the women on the eve of election with a "Women's March of Allegiance." They had no floats or bands, but only banners of simple design urging law enforcement and constitutional adherence.

Kathleen Norris, famous novelist, was the leader of the campaign. She spoke all over the State and threw into her campaigning the same energy and ability she has given to creating books in the past. Incidentally, the victory of the dries has given title her followers oversaw the Joan of Arc of the temperance movement in California. Scarcely was the ink dry on the papers specialising this appellation than Mrs. Rosalie Rooney, president of the Women's National Association of Personal Liberty sprang into print to claim the title.

Mrs. Rooney led the campaign among the women against the Wright measure. "Why, I've been called the Joan of Arc of this fight since 1919," she protested. "I led the march up the steps of the Capitol in Washington in March, 1919, to protest against prohibition and the crowd hailed me as the Joan of Arc of the prohibition fight then and there. And I've been fighting ever since. Who was leading a fight against oppression? That's just what I'm doing."

Mrs. Norris declined to take up the gauge of battle, being content that her battle was won without battling for any titles.

Speaking of prohibition recalls a good story that came from Prohibition Director Rutter's office the other day. He received a letter from North Beach, the Italian colony of San Francisco, in which the writer protested that the lives of her prize cats were being threatened by North Beach rats. They feed on the moonshine mash dumped into ash cans and vacant lots, the writer declared, and after that the rats are afraid of nothing. In fact, the writer claimed, they sought combat with cats instead of avoiding it. Director Rutter promised to see what he could do to make "the nine lives of the writer's felines safe in that district."

Rutter, by the way, heartily welcomed the passage of the Wright act. He declared it would enable his men to concentrate on the larger centers of population and on the work of nabbing the higher ups of the bootlegging trade and expressed belief that within six months after the act in force California will be decidedly arid.

Uncle Wiggily doesn't go to school!" chattered Betty. "He knows enough without—he knows more than the lady mouse teacher."

"Oh, I'm not too old to learn," chuckled the bunny gentleman. "Then will you come to school with us?" begged Bobby. "and maybe come and stay a while and tell the class a story? We won't have so many lessons to study then, Betty, if Uncle Wiggily tells us a story," whispered Bobby.

"Oh, goodie!" exclaimed the little girl "coon. Then she and Bobby having finished their breakfast, washed their paws and faces and went on to school with Uncle Wiggily.

The lady mouse teacher was very glad to see Mr. Longears, and invited him to stay and tell a story to the class, which he did. And then it was recess. Out ran the animal boys and girls to get the little lunches they had brought from home. Bobby and Betty, as all 'coons do, ran to a little pond of water, not far from the hollow stump school, to wash the clams their mother had given them. Uncle Wiggily stopped to watch Betty

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

"Good morning, Mrs. Ringtail," called Uncle Wiggily to the raccoon lady mother of Bobby and Betty Ringtail, the little "coon boy and girl. "How is Bobby this morning?" went on the bunny rabbit gentleman. "I hope he didn't have bad dreams on account of saving me from the Wolf yesterday, with his rubber ball."

"Oh, Bobby is all right, thank you," answered Mrs. Ringtail. "He seemed to think it was fun fooling the Wolf and saving your ears."

"It was fun after it was over," chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "But have they gone to the hollow stump school to say their lessons to the lady mouse teacher?"

"Not quite so soon," replied Mrs. Ringtail. "You are a bit too early. Bobby and Betty are just washing their breakfast."

"Washing their breakfast? Don't you mean they are washing their faces to eat breakfast?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Oh, no," said the mother animal. "I mean just what I said—Bobby and Betty are washing their breakfast."

"Oh, woe is me! Oh! too—badness! Oh, I guess I made a mistake!" and away he ran as fast as he could go. Then Betty crawled out of the pond bath tub, and dried her fur in the hollow stump school. And all the boy and girl animals were so excited they couldn't study.

"I guess I'd better tell them another story," suggested Uncle Wiggily, and he did, and then school was over for the day. Now if the Jumping Jack doesn't try to pick sugar plums off the Christmas tree before they are ripe, and feed them to the rag doll, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Blackcat.

All of a sudden the Fox gave Betty a shove.

coons are very clean. Not only do we wash our faces, but we wash every bit of food we eat."

"Oh, I think I must have forgotten that," admitted Uncle Wiggily. "Through I do recall that Nurse Jane said something about it. Well, I'll go watch Bobby and Betty wash their breakfast, though it seems a funny thing to do. Then I'll hop along to school with them and perhaps we may have an adventure."

Uncle Wiggily hopped a little way from the tree in which the Ringtail family lived. He saw Bobby and Betty, the "coon children, on the shore of a frozen pond. The pond had been frozen over, but there was a small space of open water, and here Bobby and Betty were washing their breakfast. They had fish that morning—some fish that Mr. Ringtail had caught the night before in the brook—and the little boy and girl animal held their pieces of fish in their forepaws, which were almost like hands, and dipped the fish in the water again and again, scrubbing it until it was very clean.

All raccoons do this, even those you may see in a Zoo Park. That's why there is, or should be, a basin of water in the raccoon pen, for the 'coons will even wash a piece of bread before they eat it. Green corn, off the cob, of which raccoons are very fond, is the only food they do not wash.

"Oh, here's Uncle Wiggily!" cried Bobby, as he finished washing his piece of fish and began to eat. "Are you going to school with us this morning?" asked the "Coon boy.

"Uncle Wiggily doesn't go to school!" chattered Betty. "He knows enough without—he knows more than the lady mouse teacher."

"Oh, I'm not too old to learn," chuckled the bunny gentleman. "Then will you come to school with us?" begged Bobby. "and maybe come and stay a while and tell the class a story? We won't have so many lessons to study then, Betty, if Uncle Wiggily tells us a story," whispered Bobby.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

Do you remember in "Little Women" when Meg hears Jo crying in her bed the night after her father has made plans to go to the war, and after she herself has cut off her hair and sold it to help the family finances.

And do you remember how Meg tries to comfort her sister thinking she is crying because her father is going away. And then Jo confesses that she isn't crying about her father at all but about her hair, her one dear beauty. She was glad to give it but she is human and feminine and weak enough to feel badly about it at the same time.

I loved that. Better than almost anything else in the book. It was so human. Such a true picture of the mixed emotions that have their way so often in us. People in stories are much more apt to have just one emotion at a time. That's not the way in life. People in life don't personify one emotion, they are self-sacrificing and noble and petty and greedy by turns, or almost all at once.

The Gifts Mothers Get

And now let me tell you what made me think of Jo and "Little Women." Maybe you won't think there is any connection. But somehow there seems to be one to me.

A woman friend was showing me her gift from her husband, one of those nice useful things husbands and wives are likely to give each other when, besides being husbands and wives they are also mothers and fathers, of a brood of youngsters with all the modern youngsters' ability to make raids on the pocket book. There were dear little gifts from the three children, the work box John had made at school, the two little handkerchiefs Kate had made herself, and the cardboard hair receiver that five-year-old Lois had produced at kindergarten.

ten. And then there were a few, just a few other little gifts.

Said my friend in explanation of their fewness: "You know most of my women friends give to the children instead of to me. It's sort of a habit they have gotten into."

Do You Do It?

"People are apt to do that," I said.

"Yes," she answered, and started to speak and then stopped.

"What was it you were going to say?"

"Well, I don't know whether to say it or not but I think I will. It's like this: I like the children to have a lot, but they always do. John and I see to that, anyway. And I do sometimes think that this giving to the children instead of to their parents is overdue. I go out and buy my friends the dainty things I want, or embroider for myself, and then they give the children something. I know it sounds horribly selfish but sometimes I wish they'd give me something. Isn't it ridiculous for a mother to feel like that? I guess I'm tired. Please don't think I'm perfectly horrid, will you?"

I promised I wouldn't. And I didn't have to strain to keep it.

Unselfish Enough

I wonder if we don't overdo it a bit when we help mothers to be even more unselfish than they naturally would be by doing everything for their children instead of them. If we made Christmas entirely a children's festivity and gave gifts only to them that would be one thing, and a sensible thing, I think. But we don't. This woman gave her grown-up women friends dainty things and they took them complacently and gave something to the children. And the mother was glad just as Jo was glad to help her family, and at the time the luxury-loving woman's heart of her did have a little weep now and then.

I don't really think we need help mothers to be any more unselfish than they naturally are.

Egyptian Theatre Is Alluring to Tourists

So long as the Pyramids stand up and the Sphinx silently mounts guard over the moldering tents of the Nile will continue to exert an overwhelming lure for New World tourists. But the residents of the southern states do not have to venture over leagues and leagues of ocean foam and brave the dangers of desert wastes to see what the home of the Pharaohs looked like in the days of Moses.

Instead, the Californian has only to travel to the screen capital of the world and there view Grauman's Hollywood Egyptian theatre, the present abiding place not only of Egyptian beauty, but also of a photodrama of the middle ages, in which the imitable Douglas Fairbanks appears as "Robin Hood," outlaw hero of Sherwood Forest.

From its beautifully decorated forecourt and main entrance, back through its foyer and auditorium to the lastingly lovely stage, Grauman's Hollywood is "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

In such an old world scene of beauty is "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" and its Nottingham Castle pageant showing to crowded houses, with popular favor growing for both the romantic playhouse and its picture as the photodrama swings into the ninth week of its premier showing.

It's a Fact

EIGHT MILES A SECOND

An airplane with the speed of 500 miles an hour is an early possibility says the assistant chief of our army air service. Then a business man can leave New York early in the morning, fly to England, have lunch, transact business and return home before dark. Europe will then be our next door neighbor. Flying at this speed makes it necessary to supply air to passengers and crew, as the plane must rise so high as to travel in rarified atmosphere. Oxygen tanks to supply air for persons for such rapid flying craft are now being experimented with by the army. An enclosed cabin is necessary. It might not be possible for the breeze to blow a person's head off when he travels eight and one-half miles a second, but it certainly would make him mighty uncomfortable if he wasn't sheltered from it. In another generation traveling by plane will be as common as motor cars are today.

WHERE THE TIME GOES

Is it estimated the average man spends his life sleeping, twenty-three years; working, nineteen years and eight months; recreation and worship, 10 years and two months; eating and drinking, six years and ten months; traveling, six years; illness, four years; dressing, two years. And hunting for a match, four months.

A total of 1007 newspapers were in operation in Canada in 1920. The language of publication is stated as English for 912 papers, French for sixty-six papers, German five and twenty-four newspapers representing twelve foreign languages.

Big Bear Damages Glacier Park Hut

HELENA, Mont.—How a giant silver tipped bear wrecked the interior of the Many Glaciers Hotel in Glacier National Park recently is told in stories brought out by belated tourists who remained after the regular season had closed and all places had been shut down.

This bear had apparently tired of a herbaceous diet and started out for a change. Finding the hotel closed and no obsequious porter on hand to take his baggage, he tore off a heavy storm door and threw his weight against the inner door, breaking it from its hinges.

Then he started to give the place the once over. In doing so he pulled down shelves on which provisions had been stored. Glass jars were broken and their contents scattered around. Cups, saucers, plates and other dishes all suffered the same way. Flour, bacon and other articles of food were dumped at random.

In the pantry Bruin found several jars of honey. From these he evidently ate his fill, without being able to consume it all, and he left the rest for another visit. That subsequent visit was his undoing. Curill McGill, watchman of the place, discovered the wreck when he came back from a trip to another part of the park. So he stuck around.

Lured by the taste of the honey, the bear came back for more. McGill was waiting for him and finished him with one well-directed shot.

The bear measured five feet, nine inches from tip to tip. When shot, the big fellow dropped onto a large packing case in which some of the hotel stores were kept. His immense weight crushed the box.

Estimates of the damage done place the figures close to $5000. The damage consisted of broken dishes, ruined provisions, smashed furniture and broken windows, through which the bear had thrown things apparently not to his liking.

Money spent in Glendale helps to make Glendale a bigger and better city.

Diet and Health By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

THUMB OR FINGER AND PACIFIER SUCKING

I have been requested so many times for information on how to break a baby from thumb and finger sucking that I am going to repeat the directions I gave some time ago.

Pacifier sucking is also pernicious so I shall speak of that. The manufacture of pacifiers should be prohibited. They absolutely have no use in the world and they do a great deal of harm. Can't we start something? Young ignorant mothers do not realize their dangers.

The bones at the roof of the mouth are very soft in babyhood and childhood, and any prolonged pressure such as would be caused by the sucking—of the thumb and fingers especially—presses these bones upward and forward, thus distorting them and lessening the nasal room.

The teeth may come in irregularly and may be in a distorted position, pointing forward. This will prevent proper mastication of food, and malnutrition and other disorders may result later. It is thought that a catarrhal condition and enlarged adenoids and tonsils may also result from these practices. Indigestion and colic, from the air swallowed, we know can be caused by them. Prolonged thumb and finger sucking will also deform the thumb or finger.

Aside from the prevention of deformities of the face and thumbs and fingers, there is a direct bearing on the child's health to consider. Never permit a child to get the habit of thumb or finger sucking by never permitting it to keep its thumb or finger in its mouth after the moment it gets it there. It is easy enough to prevent pacifier sucking by never giving a baby a pacifier.

If you find after you remove the baby's thumb persistently that it reverts to the act, then you must put splints on its arms and keep them there constantly, night and day, until baby has forgotten the habit.

BEAUTY CHATS

EDNA KENT FORBES

At last we have some really new styles in hair dressing! It certainly isn't "naughty" or "daring" any more, too many women smoke. If you want to be really smart nowadays, it seems to me that the thing to do is to be the one girl who doesn't smoke! You needn't take a prudish attitude about it, prudishness is always silly—simply say you don't care about it.

Hazel T.—Don't use cocoa butter on the face, it's too heavy for the complexion. Use flesh building cream. If you want my recipe, send me a letter with a s. a. s. e. enclosed and I'll mail it to you. It's easy to make at home and costs much less than creams of similar quality would if bought ready made.

Use cocoa butter for a wrinkled neck, it's all right there. Massage it in well and bind up the neck with old muslin, letting the oils soak in all night. Wash in the morning with hot water.

Peter.—Hair that is naturally wavy cannot be made straight, and why do it? Let yours grow fairly long on top, the waves will look softer and less "kinky" then. Use a bit of olive oil on the scalp now and then. It's good for the hair and will do away with the dryness of the cut that you object to—and it will make it less curly.

Tomorrow—Encouraging Old Age.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

with one cup hot water, beating hard for several minutes. Bake in deep layer pans. Moderate oven; time required, twenty-five to thirty minutes.

Meat Rolls—Make rich pastry, roll in thin sheet, cut in three-inch squares, spread with cold chopped chicken, beef or ham, well seasoned. Moisten with a little left-over gravy or milk and roll up like jelly roll, pressing the ends close together. Bake in quick oven and serve hot with or without left-over gravy or milk sauce.

Cabbage and Beet Salad—Mix two cups of finely shredded cabbage with one cup cold, boiled beets, cut into cubes. Moisten with French dressing to which has been added a few drops of onion juice, and let stand one-half hour in cold place. Drain and serve on lettuce leaves; garnish with Bell pepper and beets cut into fancy shapes.

Cranberry and Raisin Pie—Wash and pick over two cups of cranberries; clean one cup of sultana raisins. Put cranberries and raisins in saucepan with three cups water and one cup sugar. Bring slowly to the boiling point and then cook slowly until thick, watching that the mixture does not burn, and stirring it from the bottom occasionally. When thick add one tablespoon butter, cut into small pieces, and one teaspoon vanilla extract. Turn into pie pan lined with paste and bake in a moderate oven thirty min-

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Home runs will be manufactured in job lots instead of by car loads in the major leagues next season if legislation to be brought before the joint meeting of the American and National leagues at the Hotel Commodore today is favorably passed upon. The American league has placed the official rubber stamp upon Ban Johnson's zoning plan and all that remains to make a two-base hit out of what was formerly a home run is the concurrence of the National league owners.

The adjacent right field stands at the Polo grounds, the Yankee stadium, St. Louis and the trick right field wall at the Phillies' park would then be divided into zones and the pop fly variety of a homer would disappear automatically. It is understood that the plan calls for the two base zone to extend in forty feet from the right field foul line.

The peace and tranquility of Mr. Ruth's retreat trembles in the balance as the step in question comes up for consideration.

Mr. Ruth fully realizes the terrible consequences. Of the fifty-nine home runs he made in 1921, perhaps as many as forty-five were legitimate drives over distant barriers. Figuring Mr. Ruth to repeat with that number, under revised conditions, it may be of note that Rogers Hornsby smote nearly all of his forty-two homers to left field last year. In other words, Mr. Ruth may have plenty of company.

The effect may be endurable, however. For one thing he may not find it necessary to roll nearly so many logs around the old farm during the next off-season for the simple reason that photographers would be so few that these figures would be something of a rarity around the Ruth homestead. As things have been going so many cameras have clicked in the vicinity of Sudbury, Mass., that Mr. Ruth has been forced to work very hard on occasions.

Golf enthusiasts claim that more people play their game than any other sport can show. But do they?

It has been estimated that the total golf players—men and women—in the United States is slightly in excess of one million. Now comes the tennis people with a statement that players of this sport are more than 50 per cent in excess of golf players. In other words tennis is said to have more than a million and a half devotees in the country.

If one takes the trouble to investigate it will be found that the tennis claims are pretty near correct, and if the claims are wrong, they are wrong in that an investigation will prove that a million and a half is a very conservative estimate.

Tennis like golf is a game that attracts the young and the old. It is an exercise that everyone can go in for and this has been an important factor in its popularity all over the country. Sporting goods manufacturers bear out the statement of the tennis people in that they make more tennis equipment than for any other sport or game with golf second.

Golf for the most part is confined to larger cities, though many small towns all over the country have their small clubs. Average the golf clubs of the country and it will be found that seven clubs to a large city is a fair average. These clubs have memberships ranging from 100 to 700 members and in some cases of course more than this. A good

One by one the experts are side stepping the selection of All-American football teams. They seem willing to put their foot into it to the extent of choosing their sectional best eleven, but realization is percolating that an All-American election is not possible which ought to be reason enough without any added ones.

While the football cleat is not a cutting affair, nevertheless, the sole, heel and leather knobs form a formidable weapon, and yet it is a matter of record that very few injuries are recorded as having been received by players through the misuse of the tough end of a boot. The tackle is the most likely producer of injury through the hard physical contact with both player and ground.

Battling Siki has been advised to drop boxing as a profession and take up some other vocation by the French Ministry of the Colonies. The bird who made the suggestion has a rough sense of humor.

Fed sets of records cause statisticians more gray hairs than those which have to do with the swimming game. While the distances may be the same, there are a score of conditions which enter into the length of the tank which involves the number of turns made during the swim, whether still or tidal water, and so on. Unless these settings are announced along with the distance and time, neither of these figures mean much. It is for this reason there are so many false alarms as to wonderful performances made by swimmers.

Of course, it was expected that all hands who had anything to do with the Carpenter-Siki fight would immediately disclaim anything wrong in connection with the battle. Siki may be the champion liar of the heavyweight

Reinstatement of Dick Kerr Halted

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Fresh complications were stirred into the Yanks-White Sox dickering when it was learned the movement to obtain the reinstatement of Dick Kerr, star left-hander, had been dropped, temporarily, at least.

At the same time the White Sox added a new element when they demanded Everett Scott, shortstop, in addition to Aaron Ward, second baseman, and Bob Meusel, outfielder, in exchange for Eddie Collins and "Bib" Falk, outfielder.

"We are further apart than ever," said Ed Barrow, the business manager of the Yanks. Miller Huggins, Yankee manager, said he still was in favor of the deal but not at the expense of wrecking his club.

ANNUAL CENSUS REPORT ISSUED

U. S. Director Tells of Work Effected by Bureau Over Three Years

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—In his annual report to the Secretary of Commerce, made public today, William M. Stewart, director, describes the work accomplished by the Bureau of the Census during the three-year census period ended June 30, 1922.

During that period the bureau made its preparations for the Fourteenth Decennial Census, which covered the subjects of population, agriculture (including irrigation and drainage), manufactures, and mines and quarries (including oil and gas wells); conducted its field canvass, in the course of which approximately 90,000 enumerators and special agents were employed; and compiled and prepared for publication the census results, which in final form will fill 11 quarto volumes having an aggregate of 12,000 pages.

During the progress of the work all the fundamental statistics and many detailed figures were published in bulletins or advance statements; and by June 30, 1922, the last of the manuscript of the final reports had been sent to the printer.

The Bureau has thus established a record in census taking. "So far as this census is concerned," said the director, "the figures published are ancient history. It is safe to say that never before has the public been supplied with such an array of facts concerning the elements of our population, their social condition, and their industrial activities so shortly after the data were collected."

Expenses Kept Down

It is noteworthy that the cost of the census work was kept somewhat below the total amount appropriated, despite the unexpected obstacles encountered and the abnormally high wages and prices prevailing at the time the census was taken.

Aside from the decennial census work, the Bureau carried on its regular annual inquiries covering births and deaths in registration areas and cotton production, consumption, and distribution, together with a number of other statistical investigations authorized by law. The birth and death-registration areas, which now contain 66 per cent of the total population of the country, are being extended from time to time, and it is expected that ultimately the entire United States will be included in one registration area for both births and deaths.

The Bureau's office force, which at the beginning of the fiscal year 1922 numbered 2,383, was reduced from month to month until on June 30, 1922, the close of the census period, it comprised 831 officials and employees.

Attention is called in the report to the handicap under which the Census Bureau labors by reason of its low salary scale, which was the chief cause for the separation, between July 1 and September 15, 1922, of seventy-five out of a total of 765 clerical employees; that is to say, one-tenth of the entire force left the Bureau's service in the short period of two and one-half months, the majority of them having obtained employment in other bureaus or offices at higher salaries.

State Giving Away Many Seedling Trees

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Nearly 7,000,000 trees will be available for distribution by the State Department of Forestry during the next planting season. A tabulation and statement of the varieties available, made public here, show a total of 5,348,450 conifers, including 4950 ornamental trees, Norway spruce and arbor vitae and 1,589,950 hardwoods.

Forest tree seedlings which will be given away during the spring of 1923 for planting on idle lands in the state include the following evergreens: Two-year-old pitch pine, Scotch pine, Japanese red pine, Japanese black pine and European larch and three-year-old white pine and Norway spruce. Hardwood seedlings include white ash, green ash, rock oak, red oak, hardy catalpa and American elm, all one-year-old.

These trees, the department explains, are from five to twelve inches in height. While the size may seem small to the inexperienced planter, the department experts say that 20 years' practice in forest tree planting has shown conclusively that the best results are obtained by the use of small, but stocky and thrifty trees.

Trees distributed to individuals are to be planted for wood production and are well suited in size and shape for shade or ornamental purposes, the department points out. The nurseries conducted by the state have been inspected and are free from insect pests and the trees are declared to be stocky, thrifty and provided with well-developed root systems.

The department announces it is prepared to give planting instructions or other information that may be desired.

Danny Kramer in 10-Round Draw

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 14.—Danny Kramer, Los Angeles southpaw boxer, fought a ten round draw here last night with Danny Nunes, a Sacramento boy, to determine who would meet Weldon Wing for the featherweight championship of the Pacific coast. As a result there is no winner to meet Wing on the next card.

Kramer entered the ring a favorite due to his knockout reputation. He appeared over-anxious and missed many chances to measure Nunes by over-shooting his mark. Soon after the bout opened Kramer caught the Sacramento boy on the chin with a right hander. Nunes ducked into a clinch and recovered before Kramer could follow up. It was horse and horse after Nunes dropped Kramer in the second round for the count of six. The battlers tore in vigorously, each absorbing many punches.

Mike De Pinto fought a draw with Chic Rocco in the semi-windup. Neil Campbell and Bill McDonald slam-banged through a four round draw. Jack Griffin Lonnie Newton in the first round and Tim Callahan stopped George Welch in the third round. Kid Manilla lost the curtain raiser to Benny Dolson.

Golf Ball Is Driven Into Ear of Donkey

CORK, Ireland.—Isaak Walton has no modern champion, and so fish stories are giving way to golf stories.

J. W. McEvoy drove off the third tee at the Middleton links, and his ball entered the ear of a donkey on the course. The donkey stood still for a time, but when the players were within a few yards the animal took to its heels and tossed its head, and the ball came rolling to the ground.

It cost McEvoy one stroke when the argument had ended.

Ohio Schools Given Historical Document

CUYAHOGA FALLS, O. — A framed copy of the "Mayflower Compact" has been presented to the local public schools by the Ohio Department of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, through its only Falls member, Charles Howland.

Authorities term this the first agreement between colonists. The compact was written after the Pilgrims anchored off Cape Cod in November, 1620. They were unable to proceed southward because of the severe weather. As they had no authority to settle on the New England shore some of their servants threatened mutiny if the newcomers stopped at what is now Provincetown Harbor.

In the chain of the historic ship the Pilgrims drew up and signed this agreement declaring themselves "loyal subjects" of the king and affirming their purpose of making laws for the "general good of the colony."

The copy is printed in Old English script, with the names of the signers appended. The border consists of the May flower, or trailing arbutus, with a picture of the venerable vessel in the center. The gift was followed by a series of faculty lectures on the instrument.

Howland traces his ancestry nine generations back to the old Plymouth Colony, and four of his forebears were signers of the original compact. His sister, Miss Della Howland, is a member of the organization. Headquarters of the department is at Cincinnati, and Howland says Charles P. Taft once served as president.

Former Sweetheart Of Clara Is Sought

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—A man who was Clara Phillips' "sweetie" when she was a chorus girl and who has mysteriously disappeared, is under suspicion as her aide in escaping from the county jail, it was learned today at the sheriff's office.

Search for the "tiger woman's" sweetheart was started several days ago and when it was found that he had disappeared shortly before her escape the theory that he may have assisted her in the jail break was strengthened.

The man, it was learned, knew Mrs. Phillips when she lived in Texas, and when she first became a chorus girl. He was said to have been infatuated with her for years and to have come to Los Angeles to be near her.

Mother Faces Trial For Slaying Babies

PORTLAND, Dec. 14.—Mrs. George Peles, young mother who caused the death of her two babies by asphyxiating them, must answer to the law unless a lunacy commission finds her unbalanced. A murder charge has been filed against her.

Tossing on a hospital bed, slowly recovering from effects of the gas, she told authorities she planned the tragedy, because her babies were not as smart as other persons' babies.

"We would have all died together," she sobbed.

Doctors believe her mind is sane. It is also thought congenital weakness may have led her to the tragic act in the belief her children were not smart.

SOCIAL EVENTS

MRS. W. ROBERTS HOSTESS

The holiday spirit prevailed yesterday at the meeting of Chapter L. P. E. O., with Mrs. Warren Roberts at her home at 617 East Elk avenue.

Carrying out the Christmas idea, poinsettias were used in decoration and after the noon luncheon a Christmas program was given under the direction of Miss Isabel Isgrig.

Mesdames A. W. Tower and Emma Burket, and Miss Lillian Shropshire were assisting hostesses.

Just before the Christmas program the women engaged in a short study hour on United States history. Mrs. Genevieve Goss was in charge and the American Colonies were discussed and a quiz conducted.

Mrs. E. U. Emery, substituting for Mrs. A. C. Brown, assisted Mrs. Goss.

The first number of the Christmas program was a vocal solo by Miss Isgrig, "There Were Shepherds" (Scott). Following this Miss Isgrig accompanied by a group of singers gave "O Holy Night" (Adophe Adam). Those assisting Miss Isgrig were Mrs. Will Goss, Mrs. W. H. Peart, Frank Butterfield, J. B. Clark and Dr. Lucas.

As a final number the company sang "Silent Night."

During the afternoon Mrs. Freeman Kelly, a guest from Chapter BA, spoke on the P. E. O. educational fund.

HONORED AT LUNCHEON

Miss Mae Cornwell, principal of the Acacia Avenue school, was complimented yesterday at a luncheon given at the noon hour in the kindergarten room by the Acacia Avenue Mothers' club. The occasion was Miss Cornwell's birthday and a company of twenty-six representatives from the Mothers' club and members of the school faculty enjoyed the celebration.

The luncheon table was decorated in a pink and white color scheme, a large bouquet of pink and white carnations being the centerpiece. As the final course of the luncheon a large birthday cake, with pink and white icing and lighted with candles, was served.

In congratulating Miss Cornwell the company presented her with an artistic vase filled with flowers. Accompanying the gift was a clever rhyme written by Mrs. Harry Levy. It said:

"To our dear Mae we give today These flowers in a vase
To show that in our hearts No one can take her place.
And with them goes The earnest wish That quite unlike the weather This birthday may the brightest be
And joyous all together."

SHAKESPEARE SECTION

A continuation of the study of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" is announced for the meeting of the Shakespeare Section of the Tuesday Afternoon club Monday afternoon, December 18, at the home of Mrs. W. E. Evans at 333 North Orange street.

The scene will be a short business meeting at 1:45 o'clock and the program will begin at 2 o'clock.

Pythian Sisters to Give Benefit Dance

The number of families which can be cheered by the Pythian Sisters at Christmas time will depend upon the public's response to their benefit dance tomorrow night in their hall at 103 West Park avenue at which time they have promised all who attend a most enjoyable time.

Last Christmas a number of families, whose holidays might otherwise have been cheerless, were cheered by the Pythian Sisters. Knights of Pythias and their friends are expected to turn out en masse to this benefit.

The entertainment committee comprises Mrs. Melissa Dickson of 216 East Wilson avenue and Mrs. Elizabeth Haynes of 334 West Cypress street. They have engaged A. M. Kelly's Shrine Club Orchestra.

U. S. to Join With Europe, Is Report

LONDON, Dec. 14. — Advice from Washington intimates that the United States may participate more actively in European affairs next year, particularly in regard to reparations, were conspicuously displayed on the first pages of London newspapers today.

Newspapers expressed the opinion editorially that President Harding will intervene.

News that J. P. Morgan, who recently returned to the United States from Europe, had conferred at the state department in Washington strengthened belief here that America is preparing to modify her policy of isolation.

Chicago Train Is Wrecked; 1 Dead

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Dec. 14. — Northwestern passenger and express train No. 125, north bound from Chicago and Milwaukee, was wrecked early this morning between West Bend and Barton, Wis. Fireman Looman of Fond Du Lac was killed instantly, his body being burned to a crisp.

Engineer Tom Green, of Fond Du Lac was thrown fifty feet and is not expected to live. The road was torn up for fifty feet and all traffic is held up.

A pilotless army airplane has made successful flights of more than ninety miles with only an automatic control device steering it.

Fourteen Dead as Result Train Crash

HOUSTON, Texas, Dec. 14. — Five deaths at a hospital this morning brought the total to fourteen dead today as a result of the crash of Houston, East and West Texas passenger train No. 28 with a switch engine at Humble, near-by oil town, late Wednesday night.

Conductor William Campsey, Houston; M. Young, Van Noy company agent; an unidentified white man, and six negroes were cooked to death by live steam.

Approximately thirty-five other negroes were badly scalded, five of them so seriously they died, bringing the death total up to fourteen by 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The train was known as the Nacogdoches Lufkin "Rabbit," running between Houston and Shreveport.

Although they received a severe shaking up, none of the passengers in the Pullman car were injured. All of the dead and injured were passengers in the first and second coaches of the train, into which the live steam from the switch engine's steam chest poured.

Outstanding among many instances of bravery and presence of mind recorded during the work of rescuing victims was one railroad man who refused to give his name. This man catapulted himself into the coach while it was still carrying doctors and nurses was en route to the scene from Houston. Work of extricating the dead and injured was begun by Humble physicians and citizens before the relief train arrived, however.

According to members of the crew of the switch engine, a watchman named Smith had been left in charge while they went to a nearby restaurant for their supper. The first they knew the engine's "drifting" came with the impact of the two locomotives.

Morgan Gives Views Upon Reparations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. — J. Pierpont Morgan has given Secretary of State Hughes his views of the German reparations tangle, which has caused a renewed threat of a break in the Franco-British entente, but the nature of Morgan's advice was a closely guarded secret here today.

The state department flatly refused to make any announcement concerning Morgan's visit which was unheralded and surrounded by secrecy. The financier arrived in Washington late yesterday afternoon, went from the station to the state department, returned to New York in his private car a few hours later as quickly as he had come.

While a blank wall of silence was offered today to all inquiries as to the purpose of Morgan's visit, the impression was put forward that Morgan was sent for by Secretary Hughes. Morgan has only recently returned from a prolonged stay in London and Paris, during which he sat in with the reparations commission in its consideration of the indemnity question. The outstanding development of Morgan's European trip was his refusal to participate in an international loan to Germany under present conditions. Reports were circulated in the capital today following Morgan's visit that the United States would make some concrete proposals for the settlement of the reparations muddle when the allied premiers resume their conference early in January, but there was no confirmation of these reports.

Morgan did not call at the treasury department. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, whose financial interests have been affiliated with those of Morgan in some lines, expressed the opinion today that no loan was in contemplation to Germany at this time.

U. S. Skeptical on Calling Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. — While the government is thoroughly in sympathy with the project of calling another world conference on limitation of arms — this time to restrict the size and scope of submarines, aircraft and auxiliary naval vessels of all classes — administration officials are nevertheless highly skeptical of the success that would attend such gathering at this time.

Officials who guided the last conference through the perilous shoals of European jealousies expressed the opinion today that the time is not propitious for the calling of another conference — with France and Great Britain in disagreement on many of their international policies and with the clouds of war still hovering over the Balkans and the Near East.

They were quick to point out, too, that the treaties negotiated by the epoch-making conference last winter have not been ratified by France and Italy, and there exists no certainty as to when these instruments will be ratified and the results of the 1921-22 parley made operative.

Clemenceau Cables France His Findings

PARIS, Dec. 14. — Although Former Premier Georges Clemenceau is far away from France, returning home upon the liner Paris, he made his political influence felt by wireless today.

Francois Cruet, correspondent of the Petit Parisien, who is accompanying "the tiger," sent an interview from the liner which created a tremendous sensation in the chamber of deputies today and threatens to destroy party alignments.

The former premier made the following points in his statement: First—Opposed occupation of the Ruhr by France.

Second—Urged ratification of the Washington conference treaty by France.

Third—Approval of proposal that President Harding should arbitrate Anglo-French differences.

Fourth — Warned France to make costly sacrifices to retain American friendship.

Political capital will be made of the interview when Premier Poincare addresses the chamber of deputies tomorrow.

L. A. Chief to Get 'Little Phil' Alguin

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14. — Word from Chief of Police Oaks that "Little Phil" Alguin, bandit-slayer of Police Detective John J. Fitzgerald, had been surrendered to him at the border near El Paso was anxiously awaited by police officials here today.

Oaks has arranged with Mexican officials to surrender Alguin in exchange for Herbert and Fernando Rube, sons of a Mexican federal judge, arrested in Los Angeles for the theft of an automobile.

The exchange of prisoners probably will occur before Saturday night, according to information from El Paso, where Chief Oaks has been for the past ten days.

More Strikes Seen By Governor Allen

NEW YORK, Dec. 14. — Transportation and coal strikes on as great, if not greater scale than the two in the past year are foreseen by Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas. These national strikes said the executive, whose fight for the industrial court focused the eyes of the nation on him, will occur within the next year, or possibly in two years.

In an exclusive interview given International News Service today, he said that the trend of reducing wages which will continue in proportion to the reduction in the cost of living, will be fought by "professional labor leaders" and consequently the two strikes on a national scale, are bound to come. He declined to say in what field of transportation industry, one of the strikes would occur.

Out of these two strikes, he prophesied, will come national and state legislation which will give to whatever organization the government may have the power to enforce wage decisions made by such government organization.

ROYAL

Every day ought to be Christmas

We can make every day Christmas in one sense of the word; we can give presents on December 25 that will daily remind the recipient of our good forethought and fine judgment.

Take the ROYAL Electric Cleaner: Every day it builds up leisure hours for the little lady of the big house, so that her cleaning tasks, that formerly took hours to complete, now take but a few minutes, and she has time to get outside in Southern California's great outdoors and enjoy life.

Give her a few nice, pretty things, dear to a woman's heart, but give her a ROYAL, too, and watch her eyes light up with appreciation.

There are many reasons why the ROYAL is best, but the main reason is that it gets ALL the dirt, and what good is a cleaner that doesn't?

Let our ROYAL man demonstrate so you'll be sure you're buying her the one she'd want.
